Cities in a Changing World

Globalisation is changing and becoming more hostile. Shamubeel will explain why globalisation remains critical for New Zealand because of our intense trade and people ties. Will cities play a stronger role in shaping these connections in the future?